Overview

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's (PDA) Bureau of Farmland Preservation administers programs that keep prime agricultural lands available for production agriculture in perpetuity.

Section 14.4 of Act 149 requires the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board to describe all relevant activities of the program for the preceding calendar year in an annual report. This report covers the activities of the bureau and board from January 1 through December 31, 2017.

Farmland Preservation in Pennsylvania

According to American Farmland Trust, Pennsylvania leads the nation in farmland preservation, with 5,242 farms and more than 550,000 acres protected through permanent agricultural conservation easement. Using public funds to purchase easements is a critical investment in Pennsylvania's robust agricultural industry, and no other state has done more to protect its prime farmland soils for future generations.

Pennsylvania has some of the most fertile non-irrigated soils found anywhere in the world, and as the economy rebounds and land-use challenges persist, development pressures threaten prime farmland. Farmland preservation works in tandem with smart growth concepts and comprehensive planning at the local level to safeguard farmland and ensure a future food supply for a growing world population.

In 2017, farmland preservation efforts were bolstered by:

- $53.9 million in state, county, and federal funds made available to purchase development rights on working farms;
- Total county contributions exceeding the half-billion-dollar mark, and state contributions exceeding one billion dollars in early 2018;
- 16,236 acres preserved on 197 farms;
- A $6.3 million grant awarded by the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) to install best management practices on preserved and applicant farms located in the Chesapeake Bay watershed;
- The Preserved Farms Resource Center continuing its mission to provide professional succession planning services to owners of preserved farms; and
- Recognizing 16 Century Farm families and five Bicentennial Farm families.

County Milestones

Two counties celebrated important preservation milestones during 2017:

- Lebanon County – 25th anniversary
- Lackawanna County – 5,000 acres

Bureau Activities

The Bureau of Farmland Preservation provides administrative and technical support to 58 counties that participate in farmland preservation programs, and oversees the distribution of funds set aside for preservation purposes. Easement recommendations are reviewed for state board approval, and guidance is given to counties, farm owners, local officials, and attorneys on issues related to preserved farms. The stewardship responsibilities associated with a now $1.5 billion public investment are mounting, and this trend will continue over time.

In addition to administering the state Farmland Preservation program, the bureau is tasked with overseeing the Clean and Green preferential assessment program, the Agricultural Security Area program, and the Century and Bicentennial Farm program.

Program Implementation

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Conservation Easement Purchase Program was developed in 1988 to help slow the loss of prime farmland to non-agricultural uses. The program enables state, county and local governments to purchase conservation easements – called development rights – from farm owners. The first easements were purchased in 1989.

Counties participating in the program have appointed agricultural land preservation boards. A state board is responsible for distributing state funds, as well as approving and monitoring county programs, boards, and specific easement purchases.

A farm owner's first step to preserving a farm is to enroll in an Agricultural Security Area (ASA), which protects the farm against local ordinances and nuisance lawsuits that could affect normal farming activities. An ASA designation also provides special consideration in review of farmland condemnation by state and local government agencies. If the ASA includes at least 500 acres enrolled, it may qualify for consideration under the easement purchase program at the landowner's request.

In addition to enrollment in an ASA, farms considered for easement purchase must be in active agricultural use. Soil quality, stewardship, and development pressure are evaluated by county officials, and farms are then ranked and placed on a waiting list by ranking. To date, roughly 1,500 eligible farms remain on county backlog lists.

The State Agricultural Land Preservation Board met six times in 2017 to consider individual easement purchases submitted by 41 of the 58 counties participating in the Farmland Preservation program. The state board approved for purchase 197 easements -- totaling 16,236 acres -- from state, county, and local governments, as well as non-profits.

Funding

Conservation easements allow property owners to retain a farm's title, pass the property to heirs, or sell the property, while still maintaining agricultural use of the land. Many farmers use the proceeds from easement sales to reduce debt loads, expand operations, or to help ensure the transition of the farm to the next generation. Farmers may choose to receive the proceeds from easement sales in a lump sum payment, in installments over a period of five years, or on a long-term installment basis.

The program operates on a calendar year with county governments, and the state board is required to set a spending threshold by March 1 of each year. In 2017, the board set this amount at $36 million; county contributed $16.7 million. Each county received a grant amount and counties that contributed funds also received a match. Along with federal funds, the total investment in farmland preservation for 2017 was $53,930,517. Dedicated state funding sources include $25.5 million annually from cigarette taxes and a variable amount of roughly 18.7 percent of the Environmental Stewardship Fund.

Most transactions are bargain sales, meaning, the landowner is offered less than the appraised easement value. In 2017, farm owners donated roughly $6 million in easement value to the program. This contribution is the single greatest source of leveraging for farmland preservation.

Public Information and Training

Part of the bureau's commitment to protecting the state's farmland from development involves providing county programs with accurate information and resources to submit easement purchases to the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board for approval.

Bureau staff support the 58 counties with approved programs by interpreting legislation, reviewing county program manuals, providing sample documents, meeting with appraisers, reviewing easement documents, and offering administrative guidance.

In 2017, the bureau conducted a regional training session for county administrators in State College. The bureau also conducted individual training sessions for county administrators and participated in other meetings conducted by the Pennsylvania Farmland Preservation Association, an organization comprised of county farmland preservation program administrators dedicated to promoting the interests of agricultural land preservation in the state. This outreach helps to ensure that county staff have a comprehensive understanding of the program, strengthening the relationships between bureau staff and those they assist.

Additionally:

- The bureau is currently revising A Guide to Farmland Preservation, a comprehensive resource for county farmland preservation program administrators.
- PA Farmland, a web-based program, automates and streamlines the process of submitting farms for easement recommendation, saving time and resources and cutting administrative costs. The bureau is working with the department's Office of Information Technology on phase two of the project to incorporate financial tracking and inspection forms, further reducing paperwork and improving efficiency.
- Bureau staff provided public outreach at the 2017 Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg, Dauphin County, and Ag Progress Days in Rock Springs, Centre County.
- In 2017, the bureau led two Clean and Green program classes to county tax assessors at regional and statewide conferences. The bureau also occasionally attends meetings conducted by the Assessors Association of Pennsylvania's Clean and Green committee and the County Commissioners Association of Pennsylvania.
- The bureau instructed a class on Agricultural Security Areas to township officials at the annual Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors conference in Hershey and another class at a regional conference in Wellsboro.
- In 2017, bureau staff met routinely with farmers and stakeholders on topics related to farmland preservation. As the program matures and the number of preserved farms increases, the workload has shifted from that of securing purchases to one of protecting an investment. Competing land use interests and a growing population will continue to challenge easements going forward.
  - For example, the bureau presented at three public meetings regarding a high-tension powerline project that will impact preserved farmland in Franklin and York counties, which demonstrates the need to strike a balance between energy needs and protection of farmland and natural resources.

Regional Conservation Partnership Program

The bureau was awarded a $6.3 million Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP) contract by USDA-NRCS in 2017 to install best management practices on farms in the Chesapeake Bay watershed. The grant, which uses state and county farmland preservation investments as the required match, validates an important point that working farms with good conservation practices are a benefit to water quality and natural environment. Preserved farms are ideal for investing in conservation, as the farms will always be available for agriculture and are required to follow a conservation plan in perpetuity. The grant will prioritize applicants and preserved farm owners based on need and practices helping to benefit water quality, and the primary focus area includes Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Perry, and York counties – with intent to include additional counties in the future.

Preserved Farms Resource Center

The industry's ability to continue thriving rests on the ability of individual farms to transition to the next generation. It is an especially critical time given the struggle of the dairy industry and many transitions those farm owners may face. A variety of resources and education are needed to help farm families work through the difficult process of creating and implementing a farm succession plan, whether the farm stays in the family or transitions to non-family members. Without adequate succession planning, farms are at greater risk of going out of business or being converted to non-farm uses. By creating a succession plan, a family's vision and intentions for a farm can be addressed and implemented purposefully. To date, more than 1,500 of the 5,242 preserved farms in Pennsylvania have changed hands and made some sort of transition.

The Preserved Farms Resource Center was created to facilitate business transition and succession planning for Pennsylvania's growing number of preserved farms. It will complement the work of the bureau and the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Land Preservation Board, which safeguards prime agricultural land in perpetuity.

The center assists farm owners by coordinating the development of a team to facilitate the transition/succession and business planning process for farm families. This process is implemented by a team of professionals with expertise in farm transition planning tailored to the specific needs of each farm. Team members may include facilitators, attorneys, accountants, financial planners, lenders, conservation and nutrient management planners, and other professionals who can provide expertise in the process.

Grant funds provided through the Grant Assistance Program are available for up to $3,000 per farm family for costs associated with transition planning.

Two workshops for preserved farm owners in Berks and Cumberland counties were conducted in 2017, with more workshops underway across the state in 2018.

Clean and Green Program

The Pennsylvania Farmland and Forest Land Assessment Act of 1974—also known as the Clean and Green Act, or Act 319—protects farmland, forestland, and open space by allowing for land taxation per its value as used rather than the prevailing market value. The effect of Clean and Green on the overall farmland preservation effort is widespread, as affordable property taxes are essential to maintaining viable farms. In its 40-year history, the program has been successful in achieving this goal.

Enrolled land is assessed per the income approach to land appraisal – the amount of income the land can produce at its highest and best agricultural use. In recent years, use values have increased. Counties may establish use values that are lower than the department’s. The program has widespread participation, with nine million acres enrolled statewide. The average reduction in fair market assessed value for enrollees is roughly 50 percent – providing an incentive to keep the land undeveloped.

The program is voluntary and requires a minimum of 10 acres remaining in one of three designated use categories:

- Agricultural use: land used to produce agricultural commodities commercially;
- Agricultural reserve: noncommercial open space land used for recreation and scenic enjoyment that is open to the public free-of-charge; and
- Forest reserve: 10 acres or more of forested land capable of yielding timber or other wood products.

Land removed from its designated category for a non-permitted use is subject to a rollback tax imposed for up to seven years, plus 6 percent interest. Certain land divisions and conveyances are exempt from rollback penalties if the original use of the land does not change.

County assessment offices administer the program at the county level. The bureau provides for uniform interpretation of the Clean and Green Act among county assessment offices and distributes use values by May 1 of each year. County assessors are required to submit information annually on the extent of Clean and Green Act participation within their counties to the department. To facilitate this process, the department surveys each county on its Clean and Green activity, and the findings from this survey are the basis of this report. A copy of the survey form used to gather this information is included in the appendices as Exhibit A.

2017 Clean and Green Survey Results

Administration

The 2017 survey forms were distributed to 67 counties, and 61 responded to the survey. Sixty counties, or 90 percent, participated in the Clean and Green program. Table 8 (appendix) depicts those counties reporting participation in 2017.

Table 9 (appendix) summarizes the statistical data of participation. Counties reported 204,968 parcels enrolled in 2017, covering 10,315,030 acres.

Table 10 (appendix) indicates the acres terminated in each category of eligibility. The most common reasons for termination and removal of enrolled land include a split-off or subdivision between two and 10 acres, a change in use of the enrolled property that is inconsistent with the eligibility requirements, sale of enrolled property for residential development, establishment of a commercial activity not consistent with the allowable rural enterprise, and posting land enrolled in the agriculture reserve category.

Table 11 (appendix) lists the number of applications rejected per county for reasons such as not meeting requirements, too little acreage, late filing, non-conforming use, inability to verify ownership, or failure to show $2,000 anticipated gross income. It lists the number of violations cited for reasons such as property split-offs, non-conforming subdivisions, change in use, transfer of land, and voluntary rollbacks. Far more applications are accepted each year than rejected. Violations, which result in rollback taxes, are often unavoidable.

Table 12 (appendix) lists the Rollback Tax Summary. It details the dollar amount received as rollback taxes and the dollar amount received as interest on the rollback taxes. Act 319 requires that all the interest received on rollback taxes be added to other local money appropriated by an eligible county for the purchase of agricultural conservation easements. If the county does not participate in the easement program, the interest shall be forwarded to the state agricultural conservation easement purchase fund. The interest on rollback taxes is intended to mitigate loss of farmland, as it is used to fund easements purchased through the state farmland preservation program. In some cases, it is the sole source of county funds that are certified to the state for match.

Table 13 (appendix) lists the way Act 319 use values were determined by the responding counties. The county has the option of establishing a base year to calculate the preferential assessment, using the annual department-provided county-specific use values, or determining a lower county-specific use value. Many counties favor locking in base-year values rather than updating each year, while others prefer annual updates.

Table 13 also lists how counties assess the forest reserve average values. The department, with assistance from the state Department of Conservation and Natural Resources' Bureau of Forestry, provides values based on the average value of timber in a county and the average value of six timber types.

Federal Agricultural Conservation Easement Program

The federal Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP) works through existing government programs, including the Bureau of Farmland Preservation, to help preserve prime and unique farmland. The program reimburses land owners up to 50 percent of the fair market easement value. This allows counties to preserve additional farms on their waiting lists that may have otherwise not been preserved with state, county, and municipality funding alone.

Since 1996, the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (formerly known as the Farm and Ranchland Protection Program) has provided nearly $34 million in funding to the state easement purchase program in Pennsylvania. This funding preserved more than 40,000 acres throughout the commonwealth. In 2017, USDA awarded nearly $692,100 in reimbursements for two farms totaling 201 acres in one county. The Agricultural Conservation Easement Program is a Farm Bill program that will be debated in 2018 as the federal Farm Bill is negotiated.

Century and Bicentennial Farm Programs

Pennsylvania's Century and Bicentennial Farm programs demonstrate the importance of agriculture and the state's rural heritage and emphasize the commitment of Pennsylvania's long-standing farm families to preserving a vital element of our economy.

The Century Farm program recognizes farms that have been in the same family for 100 years or more. Owners of farms recognized with this designation are presented with a certificate from the Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture. Information supplied by the applicants is filed in the archives of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission.

The Bicentennial Farm program was created in 2004 to recognize farms that have been in the same family for 200 years or more. The Bicentennial Farm Program is ruled by similar standards to the Century Farm Program.

Fifteen Century and Bicentennial farms were recognized at several different events in 2017, including the Pennsylvania Farm Show and Ag Progress Days. To date, the Department of Agriculture has recognized 2,026 Century and 180 Bicentennial farms, representing 2,206 families dedicated to both their heritage and production agriculture.

Grant Programs

Agricultural Land Conservation Assistance Grant Program

Act 99 of 1994 authorized up to $750,000 in proceeds from the sale of state-owned farmland to establish an Agricultural Land Conservation Assistance Grant Program. Act 85 of 2016 amended the fiscal code to expand use of funds to include grants of up to $3,000 each to owners of preserved farms for succession planning. Grant funds may be used for reimbursement on a match basis for costs incurred by applicants. The funds are administered by the bureau through the Preserved Farms Resource Center.

Land Trust Reimbursement Grant Program

In addition to the state's Bureau of Farmland Preservation, nonprofit organizations called land trusts operate throughout Pennsylvania to ensure land with special natural or public value is not developed. To support this effort and accelerate the state's farmland preservation activity, Act 46 of 2006 established the Land Trust Reimbursement Grant Program.

The grant program authorizes the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board to allocate up to $200,000 annually from the Agricultural Conservation Easement Purchase Fund for reimbursement of expenses incurred in the acquisition of agricultural conservation easements by land trusts. The grants cover expenses including appraisal, legal services, title searches, document preparation, title insurance, survey and closing fees.

Twenty-three land trusts are registered with the state board. As of December 2017, the board has awarded $2,057,212 to 13 land trusts for expenses incurred through the preservation of 31,367 acres. The acreage preserved through this program does not count toward the state total of preserved land and farms.

Easement Program Participation

The remainder of this annual report responds directly to the requirements of Section 14.4 (legislative report) of Act 149 of 1988, the Agricultural Area Security Law. Subsection titles correspond to the numbered paragraphs of Section 14.4 and contain explanatory text that references tables and graphs included in the appendices.

Agricultural Security Areas

Agricultural Security Areas strengthen and protect quality farmland from the urbanization of rural areas by protecting against local nuisance ordinances related to farming activities, and providing oversight in certain cases of eminent domain. Enrollment in an ASA is voluntary, but a prerequisite for applying to the farmland preservation program. The most important step in preserving a farm begins at the local level when the ASA is formed.

The Agricultural Area Security Law, as amended April 13, 1992, P.L. 100, No. 23, provides that the secretary of agriculture shall be notified by the governing body within 10 days of the recording of an ASA.

Location

A list of all ASAs known to the department is contained in Table 1 (appendix). ASAs are listed alphabetically by county and township.

As of 2017, 997 ASAs have been formed in 65 counties in Pennsylvania.

Number of Acres

In 2017, a total of 3,993,496 acres were enrolled in ASAs across Pennsylvania.

Agricultural conservation easements in 2017 are listed in Table 2 (appendix). The first two columns list the landowner's name and the county where the easement is located.

Conservation Easements

Number of Acres

In 2017, 16,236 acres were placed under agricultural conservation easements. Since the program began, 531,025 acres have been placed under agricultural conservation easements in the commonwealth under the authority of Act 149 of 1988. All the easements have been purchased to protect the land in perpetuity.

Agricultural conservation easements preserved in 2017 are listed in Table 2 (appendix). The second and third columns list the landowner's name and the county where the easement is located.

Number of Easements

To date, 5,270 easements have been purchased in Pennsylvania under the authority of Act 149 of 1988. While other agricultural conservation easements exist in the commonwealth, they have not been purchased under the authority of Act 149 and their existence is not reported to the agriculture department. The reported easements are specifically divided into 1,110 county-owned, 1,728 commonwealth-owned, 2,262 jointly-owned agricultural conservation easements, 111 multi-funded easements and 46 easements funded jointly between a county and non-profit or local municipality.

Number and Acres in Each Conservation Easement

Table 2 (appendix) lists the number of easements, and acres included in each easement purchased during the reporting period. There were 197 easements totaling 16,236 acres purchased in 2017, shown in Table 2 (appendix). There were 166 lump-sum payment purchases, accounting for 86 percent of the easements. Most easement transactions were bargain sales, meaning easements were purchased at less than 100 percent of the appraised easement value.

Roughly 20 percent, or 32, were regular installment sales. Most of the installments received no interest, while several regular installment sales averaged one percent.

Number and Value of Easements Purchased

The purchase price of each easement under the program this reporting period is given under column five of Table 2 (appendix). The next two columns of Table 2 present additional costs in acquiring the easements, and the “Total Costs” column represents the sum of the three columns.

1. Commonwealth-Owned Conservation Easements

Sixty-seven commonwealth-owned easements were purchased in 2017, covering 5,122 acres with an easement value of $15,093,812.

2. Joint Commonwealth/County-Owned Conservation Easements

There were 91 state and county jointly-owned easements covering 7,716 acres purchased in 2017. These easements totaled $24,744,529.

3. Multi-Commonwealth/County/Township-Owned Conservation Easements

In 2017, eight multi-owner easements totaling 641 acres and $1,412,854 were purchased by the commonwealth, counties and townships.

Participating Counties

All 58 counties with appointed boards and active programs were eligible to participate in the 2017 allocation of funds process and are listed in Table 3 (appendix).

County Annual Appropriation

The 2017 appropriations made by counties are listed under the second column of Table 3 (appendix), totaling $17,210,765. Figure 1 (appendix) shows total county appropriation amounts from 1989-2018.

Characteristics of 2016 Preserved Farmland

Quality of Farmlands Subject to Easement

Data was collected on the soil classification, crop types, acreages and yields, livestock types and numbers for each farm on which an easement was purchased from January 1 – December 31, 2016.

In summary, 16,236 acres of land were placed under easement during this reporting period on 197 farms.

Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) soil classifications of this land are:

- Class I: 812 acres
- Class II: 6,819 acres
- Class III: 5,358 acres
- Class IV: 2,111 acres
- Other Classes (V-VIII; ponds, wetlands or other lands not broken down by county): 1,136 acres

Soil classes I-IV are well-suited for agricultural production.

A breakdown of the major crops grown on the farms:

- Row Crops: 7,956 acres

- Hayland: 4,871 acres
- Small Grain: 1,786 acres
- Pasture: 1,623 acres

Farms preserved supporting primary livestock operations:

- Dairy: 39 farms
- Beef: 19 farms
- Horses: 4 farms
- Sheep: 2 farms
- Swine: 3 farms

Nature and Scope of Development Activity

The likelihood of development was generally moderate to high in areas where agricultural conservation easements were purchased. These areas were primarily zoned rural residential, agricultural or conservation district. Agricultural zoning occurred in approximately 50 percent of the areas under easement purchase. Public sewer and water is available or is planned in approximately 25 percent of the preserved area.

Conservation Practices on Farms Subject to Easement

The following summary presents the frequency of use of conservation practices and best management practices on farms where conservation easements were purchased in 2017. All the farmers have developed conservation plans for their farms and are in various stages of implementation. Annual inspections conducted by the counties will report on the progress being made by farmers toward implementing their conservation plans.

SUMMARY OF CONSERVATION PRACTICES ON FARMS WITH CONSERVATION EASEMENTS
CONSERVATION PRACTICES	NUMBER OF FARMS	PERCENT OF TOTAL FARMS w/ EASEMENTS

Recommendations for the Purchase of Agricultural Conservation Easements

The total number of recommendations filed this reporting period by counties is the same as the number approved by the state board (197). None were disapproved.

Conclusion

Over the past year, the Farmland Preservation program permanently preserved 16,236 acres of agricultural land on 197 farms. With an average price per acre of $2,900, the cost of this protection in state and county funds totaled $54,919,374. Farmers have requested and gained municipal government approval of agricultural security areas protecting farming on more than 3.9 million acres of land; of the 58 participating counties, 55, or 95 percent, appropriated local money for farmland preservation during the 2017 calendar year, amounting to more than $16.7 million.

Pennsylvania's Farmland Preservation program thrives on partnerships between all levels of government and non-profit organizations and is a national model for success in land conservation. An estimated 1,500 eligible farms remain on county backlog lists for 2017. The mission of the program moving forward will be to continue preserving prime farmland and to safeguard a vast investment made in Pennsylvania agriculture. In addition, supporting programs like Clean and Green and the Agricultural Security Area continue to keep property taxes affordable and protect the rights of participating farm owners.

LAND TRUST REIMBURSEMENT GRANT PROGRAM

Background: Act 15 of 1999 authorized the state board to allocate up to $500,000 from the Supplemental Agricultural Conservation Easement Purchase Account for reimbursement grants to be awarded among qualified land trusts. Act 46 of 2006 amended the Agricultural Area Security Law (P.L. 128, No. 43), re-establishing the Land Trust Reimbursement Program by authorizing the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board to allocate $200,000 per year to the Grant Program. The program will reimburse qualified land trusts up to $5,000 for expenses incurred in the acquisition of agricultural conservation easements. These expenses include appraisal costs, legal services, title searches, document preparation, title insurance, closing costs, and survey costs.

Objective: To accelerate Farmland Preservation activity by developing partnerships with Land Trusts.
